FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

SATURDAY, Sept. 18-6 P. M The bank statement is favorable, although the de-gree of its superiority is not a great one. The de-posits have fallen off about three and a half millions, nd the banks could therefore afford to lose about eight hundred thousand dollars in reserve. The tual loss in reserve is about six hundred thousand iars, made up of the decrease in specie and legal enders. The gain in surplus reserve is conse uently about two hundred thousand dollars. This a comparatively small figure, but it is encouraging that at this season the banks gain anything in their surplus. It fortifies them for the ening week, especialy as they have also contracted their loans over two and a quarter millions. There is again a discrepancy in the specie item, which is sought to be accounted for by the locking up of gold. The small decrease will be found to be due to the large importations of gold this week, which came this way in the double transaction of selling bonds in London and the gold for them in the market here two weeks ago, when gold was in the vicinity of 137 14. The small decrease in legal tenders is attri buted to the release of greenbacks originally with-drawn to aid the speculative stock movements of the week. The following are the last two statements in

The money market was rendered quite active late in the day by the changing of loans incident to the freshening of margins on the stocks which under-went so sharp a decline. Gold interest was freely paid about half-past two o'clock, but less activity was reported before the closing of the banks. The scarcity of small notes is greatly felt in the city, owing throughout the Southern States. The speculators lay much stress upon the fact of this scarcity, which is also attributable to the calling in for cancellation Treasurer Spinner has written to the omcers of one of our prominent banks that the banking department is hastening to replace the currency thus with-drawn, and a special despatch from Washington today says that Secretary Bontwell and Superintendent McCartee, of the Currency Burean, were in consultation some time to-day in relation to denominations. Arrangements have been made whereby, after the 1st of October, the department can furnish $300,000 a day of one, two nd ten dollar notes, and this amount will be increased soon after to half a million dollars daily. This, it is expected, will relieve the money market to a considerable extent. The market for paper is still without relaxation, and prime notes are seldom done less than ten to twelve per cent discount. The merchants complain loudly of the inability to sell at old rates, but capitalists and lenders have their eyes fixed on the progress of affairs in the stock market, and still prefer the employment of their funds on

Foreign exchange continued weak and without tone, and was especially dull to-day after the

The gold market was firm, but dull. The range of the price was from 135% a 136%. The "bulls" are still entrenched at these figures and resist every fort to dislodge them. They are patiently waiting an opportunity for a sortle and another sharp ad-The "bears," however, are pursuing sensible plan of letting the market alone. It was the short interest which put the market back to its present figures from the decline to 131 1/4. An increase of that interest will only add to the strength of the "buli" side. The latter were very hopeful to-day of success, through an intimation given them that Secretary Boutwell will take no part for or against the speculation in gold. The disbursements of coin interest to-day amounted to $77,141. The range of Southern securities were again strong for the Tennessees, the report being circulated that the interest would be paid, the improvement being more noticeable in the new bonds. It is difficult to characterize the stock market other than record the simple fact of its visible fluctuations. That it has undergone a thorough change is the in ference to be derived from the appearance it as-sumed at the close of the day in contradistinction to its tone at the opening of business. The whole course and tendency of prices have been reversed with whose quarrels led to the decline, are now treating that the Lake Shore party sent out a flag of truce to parley. The subsequent direction of things indi-cates that not only was this agreed to, but the Lake Shore party further promised to abandon their sirtation with Eric and listen to the more prindent counsel of the Centralites. Hence a meeting of the New York Central directors is announced to take place at Albany on Wednesday next, when consoit-dation with Hudson River directive and with price rising to 204%, the "shorts," as usual on Saturday afternoons, rushing to cover. The next widest fluctuation was in Pacific Mail, which recovered to 72%. ## REAL ESTATE MATTERS.

Yesterday was another quiet day in the real estate market in this vicinity, and no public sales were held. Much encouragement is felt at the result of the sales held during the past week, and the ana considerable pressure to sell at what is regarded as a favorable opportunity. In this connection the following observations from the Virginia Real Estate
Advertiser, although open to the suspicion of being written in the interest of Virginia lands, are no necessary to state, the price of real estate in the necessary to state, the price of real estate in the North advanced steadily and rapidly during and immediately succeeding the late war. The same causes which produced this advance, together with other and local ones, in the Southern States, produced a corresponding decline in price. But it was not to be expected that this anomalous condition of things could continue. The shrewd and calculating capitalist of the North could not fail to see that whenever the rich and attractive lands of the South were brought in fair and open competition with their own bleak and uninviting lands that the prices of the two would approximate. The one must decline and the other must advance. Already do we find this to be the case. The testimony of men, owners of lands, from every State and almost every neighborhood in the North, is that they cannot now sell their lands except at a decline—slight it may be in many cases, but still a decline. The cause is generally attributed to the scarcity of money. The true cause is this—there is more land in market than there is a demand for. A man who wants to invest his money in lands will very naturally hesitate before ouying at from $100 to $200 per acre when he knows he can, by going a little further on, buy equally good if not superior land for from ten dollars to twenty dollars per acre. During the last few weeks we have had men in our office from almost every State from Maine to Wisconsin. With one consent we get the same report from all. There is a moral to be drawn from this, which he intelligent and practical isnd owner and capitalist of the Nortu will not be slow to observe and act upon.

Throughout the various parts of the Union outside of the Metropolitan district, except in the South, there appears to be but a slow awakening to activity in real estate operations after the sammer rest, and the country papers supply but few notices of real estate transactions.
